Warming the Eggs.

There was once an old lady in Scotland who kept a few hens. As she lived close to the house in which a church minister lived he asked her to send him two new laid eggs every morning and he would pay her for them.

So the old lady sent her girl to the minister's house every morning with two eggs, and the minister's servant always thought the eggs were newly laid because they felt quite warm, as if they had just been taken from the hen's nest.

But one day the eggs were cold, so the servant asked: "Are the eggs fresh today, Janey? They do not seem warm."

The simple girl looked at the maid and then said, "Oo, aye, they're quite fresh, only my mother could not get the cat to sit on them this morning, as it ran away."

Locating Icebergs.

The captain of an ocean steamer in most cases finds out when his vessel is approaching an iceberg from the men down in the engine room. That sounds queer, but it is a fact nevertheless. It appears that when a steamship enters water considerably colder than that through which it has been going its propeller runs faster. Such water usually surrounds the village of icebergs for many miles. When the propeller's action therefore is accelerated without the steam power being increased word is passed up to the officer on the bridge that icebergs may be expected, and a close lookout for them is established. There are natural reasons for the propeller acting in this way, and sea captains will assert the same thing.

A Remarkable Shawl.

The empress of Russia was once presented with a shawl of a remarkable kind. It is contained in a box only a few inches square, in which it fits easily, yet when it is shaken out it is ten yards square. This notable gift was the work of some women weavers in Orenberg, southern Russia, by whom it was presented. The box containing it was of wood, with hinges, hoops and fastenings of beaten silver.

A Joke on the Artists.

Some years ago there was a colony of artists painting in a Maine village some twenty miles from Portland. All were enthusiastic admirers of Winslow Homer, and all, having had a go at the painting of rocks and sea and realizing how difficult was the task, bethought them of Homer, only twenty miles away. How refreshing it would be to have a glimpse of the man's work in his studio! Fully aware that it was not his custom to admit strangers, they ventured upon the pilgrimage to that shrine. They counted on his waiving the rule where it concerned a group that contained at least one full fledged national academician and several associates of that august body. They all went to Scarborough (Portland's Neck), put up at the hotel and sent him a joint note, signing their names and begging that he would receive them. When the messenger returned they read with dismay that Winslow Homer presented his compliments and begged to be excused from receiving "art students." The joke was so good that the story was given out in artistic circles.—Arthur Hoeber in World's Work.

Mock Suns.

Mock suns are similar in point of origin to the mirages of the desert, only they occur in the arctic circle. As the long winter night of the polar region wanes once every twenty-four hours a slight glow is seen at some point on the horizon. Often accompanying this glow is seen the phenomenon of the mock suns. Several degrees up in the heavens as many as five of these spectral orbs have been seen at one time. Invariably they are all connected in a geometric figure, the suns seemingly bound together with circles and arcs of light. Often when only one appears it is mistaken for the real god of day, and natives rejoice at the early end of the long winter night only to be disappointed as the image disappears. The explanation of the phenomenon is given by physicists as refraction and reflection of light from the real sun below the horizon on the mists in the upper atmosphere.—St. Louis Republic.

Competitive Gardens for Children

"If children take an interest in agricultural work," writes Clifton H. Woodhams in the May Sunset Magazine, "or if some outside inducement is offered to attract them to it, many hours which might not be spent to so good an advantage will be taken up with a healthful and pleasant occupation. In a recent garden contest in Palo Alto, eighty-seven boys and girls entered the contest and about fifty gardens yielded excellent results. The committee bought the seeds and bulbs and supplied them to the children at the regular price, so that no one child had an advantage over another. The prizes were bright silver dollars in small envelopes. Both the girls and boys who entered the contest enjoyed the work in addition to the financial results, some of them keeping up their gardens for their own pleasure and improvement."

Seattle, Wash.—The revenue cutter Thetis, which has been stationed in Hawaiian waters for the last year, has been detailed to carry United States District Judge E. E. Cushman and his traveling court along the coast of Alaska this summer. Every year the court boards a revenue cutter and proceeds to southwestern Alaska.

MEXICANS PROTEST AGAINST ACT OF BRITISH CAPTAINDescribed as an Interference in International Affairs in Mexico.

London.—The Mexican Government has communicated to the British Foreign Office a formal protest against the action of Captain Vivian of the British loop Shearwater in landing marines at San Quintin, Lower California, which action is described as an interference in the internal affairs of Mexico.

On April 11th Captain Vivian landed 30 men and a Maxim gun at San Quintin to protect that town from what was represented to be a threatened attack by Mexican Insurgents. The revolutionary movement did not materialize and the marines were withdrawn.

This was the first actual landing of foreign forces on Mexican soil in connection with the present rebellion. The matter caused a stir in Mexico City and it has been stated that the Government of President Diaz would make a protest at London.

Captain Vivian has since been quoted as saying that he acted on the written request of two Mexican officers, who asked for protection of the British flag, asserting that their lives were in danger. This request, he added, was supplemented by a similar appeal for the protection of their property by two British residents and one American.

Disruption in China.

Seattle.—Tokyo news just received contain dispatches describing the outbreak of the rebellion at Canton. Vice Governor Fuchi, a Tartar, was assassinated in front of the Government office by a revolutionist. The guards and palanquin bearers of the Governor made no effort to arrest the assassin, who fled, but was captured later. He declared that his object was to expel the Manchus. The Viceroy of Canton ordered that all the gates of the city be closed and endeavored in vain to quiet the people, among whom anti-dynastic sentiment is rife.

No Hobbles at the Coronation.

London.—Queen Mary has stirred up a hornet's nest by banishing all tight or hobble skirts from her august presence. Gentlemen of the court in the royal motor called on all smart dress makers in Hanover Square and Bond street and stated to the managers: "We are authorized to inform you that the Lord Chamberlain commands that no tight skirts shall be worn at court, by order of her gracious majesty."

Special for Sore-Eyed Dog.

Pasadena.—Rushing from San Diego to New York City on a special car, Mr. and Mrs. M. Van Beason of the latter place calmly gave as their reason when their car stopped here they were making the hurry up trip because their Cantonese dog has a sore eye. The dog is a valuable animal and recently took cold while being exhibited at a dog show.

Thrown Under the Wheels.

Redding.—J. R. McDonald, a brakeman on the McCloud River railroad, was killed near McCloud. The hand brake failing to work he turned on the air, stopping the car so suddenly that he was thrown under the wheels. Both legs and one arm were cut off and he died almost instantly. His family resides in Fruitvale.

Pullman Sleeper Overturns.

Rocky Mountain, N. C.—A Pullman sleeping car on the Atlantic Coast line, Palmetto Limited, from Florida and other southern points, was burned near this city. One person is dead and several injured.

International Iron Workers are Jailed on Grave Charge

Los Angeles.—Three men are now under arrest and in separate cells here for the Times dynamite outrage on October 1, 1910. These men are John J. McNamara, International Secretary Treasurer of the Iron Workers' Association; his brother, James B. McNamara, alias J. B. Bryce, and Ortie E. McManigal, all members of the Iron Workers Association.

With their arrival ends the first step in what all officials declare will develop into one of the greatest legal battles ever waged in any court, completely eclipsing, in point of seriousness, interest, and dramatic intensity, the famous Moyer-Haywood-Pettibone trial. Facing the results of indictments returned charging them with the sacrifice of scores of lives, numerous dynamite outrages and a property loss aggregating millions of dollars, the trio of suspects present a complex study of human nature about which is arrayed a mass of conflicting statements, admissions and denials.

One, clear eyed, intelligent and apparently refined, is accused of having financed the alleged operations of the "wrecking crew." He makes direct denial of the charge, asserts that the whole affair, so far as he is concerned, is a "frame up"—and his words ring with a sincerity of tone that almost compels belief.

This is John McNamara, who has given out for publication the following statement:

"To the Brotherhood of Organized Labor in California and the United States: In this second attempt to crush and discredit the cause we represent, I realize fully the desperation of the enemies of labor arrayed against us, but I am of good heart, for it will fail."

"That I am innocent of any infraction of the law in word or act needs no emphasis from me, for the truth is mighty and will prevail right speedily, and for it I shall contentedly wait."

"I send to all brothers and friends of union labor the world over my earnest and affectionate greetings, with the assurance that there is no villainy or conspiracy possible of which we are afraid."

"I am also confident that it is not asking too much of the public to suspend judgment in these matters until opportunity for a full and fair defense has been afforded."

"J. J. McNamara."

Ten Million Dollar Tunnel Now
Pierces Bernese Alps

Kandersteg, Switzerland.—The colossal task of piercing the Bernese Alps, between the Kander valley on the north and the Rhone valley on the south has just been completed.

The new tunnel, known as the Lotschberg tunnel, is about nine and a half miles long, entering the mountains at Kandersteg and emerging at Goppenstein, near Gampel on the Rhone.

The completion of the tunnel will greatly shorten the journey between Berne and Basle, Paris and Calais, and Brigue and the Simplon tunnel leading to Italy. The present railway between Berne and Brigue is forced by the towering Bernese Alps to make a long detour by the Rhone valley and Montreux. The tunnel has been under construction for five years, and has cost $10,000,000.

The last dividing wall between the two borings, which was about three feet thick, was pierced at 2 a. m. The hole was not detected until the wreckage had been removed. It was first seen by a miner from the south side, who set a drill through the hole and then realized the fact and stopped boring. There was then repeated and prolonged cheering through the entire tunnel. Flowers were put through the hole for the engineer, Herr Rotpletz, to whose great energy was due the fact that the tunnel was pierced in so short a period.

Will Teach Farming in the New State Reformatory

Sacramento.—California will have a State reformatory for criminals between the ages of 16 and 30 years as soon as commission, of which Governor Johnson and Lieutenant-Governor Wallace and three others are members, select the site. This was made possible when the Governor signed Assembly bill 200, providing for the establishment of a reformatory institution at a cost of $150,000, and to be constructed by prisoners held in either of the two State penitentiaries.

It is provided in the measure that any person convicted for the first time of a felony may be sentenced to confinement in the State reformatory, when, in the opinion of the committing Newman.—A permit has been granted a San Francisco company to pave six blocks in the business center of Newman. It is expected that Newman's business section will be covered with a high grade five-inch asphalt pavement before the summer is gone.

KANAKA'S BODY INCUBATOR
FOR MILLIONS OF BACILLIStrange Case of Healthy Person Being Walking Den of Cholera Bugs.

Honolulu.—Discounting even the case of "Typhoid Mary," the New York woman who has been in quarantine for years because she spread that disease, Hulu, a physically perfect young Hawaiian, is in close detention here as a "cholera carrier" and is believed to be partially responsible for the epidemic which is being stamped out in Honolulu. Every day, the physicians who are fighting the cholera say, Hulu's body breeds millions of the cholera bacilli. His own health is perfect and despite the fact that every day millions of bacilli are detected upon him, Hulu has not felt a quail. The Hawaiian's case is the first instance of the kind known in Hawaii, and the Federal authorities, who are helping to stamp out cholera will hold him indefinitely until all danger of the spread of the disease is past.

No Welcome Without Home Rule.

London.—The Dublin Corporation's refusal to present an address of welcome to King George and Queen Mary if they visit the city following their coronation may result in the complete abandonment of the Irish trip. The vote of the members of the Corporation, 42 to 19, may be taken as a fairly accurate index to Dublin public sentiment and for this reason members of the royal household and others close to the King are said to have advised his majesty that it will be better not to go near Ireland than to risk a demonstration of ill will. Members of the Corporation say they have no personal feeling of bitterness against the King, but that they cannot welcome him officially until home rule has been granted to their country.

School of Instruction for Guards.

Sacramento.—There will be no encampment of the National Guard Infantry this year, according to the announcement of Adjutant-General Forbes, but instead there will be a school of instruction for the officers and non-commissioned officers. The first will convene in Monterey from June 11 to 18, while the latter will meet after June 30. The coast artillery will go into maneuvers with the army artillery and the State militia will go on a cruise on the Marblehead. The next annual encampment of the militia will be in 1912.

Shoots Up the Court.

Lincoln, Neb.—Grant Hursh, a laboring man of Lincoln, 41 years old, created a panic in the criminal court when he drew a revolver and fired five shots at Thomas Hawkins, distant from him scarcely 15 feet. One of the shots struck Hawkins in the hip, another wounded a woman and three others went wild. Bailiffs seized Hursh and took the weapon from him. Judge Frost adjourned court.

Man Blown to Pieces.

Sacramento.—Otto Harmson, a general helper, was blown to pieces, and J. Butcher and Andrew Johnson were seriously injured in an explosion of an acetylene gas tank in shop No. 5 of the Southern Pacific Company here Sunday. A spark from a cigarette which Harmson is said to have been smoking caused the explosion.

Car Breaks Into School.

Los Angeles.—A runaway street car, with three passengers aboard, dashed down a steep hill of this city Sunday, struck the curve at Sixth and Alvarado streets, leaped into the air and crashed through the massive concrete steps of a school of art and design. Passengers and motorman were injured, but none dangerously.

Douglas, Ariz.—Measles of a dangerous type have broken out among the United States cavalry troops at Nogales, and Lieutenant Stallman and an Army hospital nurse left for that place to care for the sick.

Atlanta, Ga.—Thomas Edward Stripling, snatched from his position as Chief of Police at Danville, Va., to answer in Georgia for a killing of 14 years ago, was sent to the prison farm to begin service of his sentence.

Savannah, Ga.—In a peech here Governor Plaisted of Maine declared that prohibition is a dead issue wherever the law is in force. It has been a failure and a farce in Maine, he said, and the same is true of Georgia's experiment.

Miles City, Mont.—Mrs. Jane Wood, 80 years old, who lived alone here, was murdered and her home set afire to conceal evidence of the crime. The woman's body was found with the head almost completely severed. Mrs. Wood came here from Buffalo, New York.

Boston.—A 17,000-mile funeral trip to the coast of South America ended when the battleship Delaware steamed up to the navy yard from Valparaiso, Chile, where she carried and delivered the body of the Chilean Minister, Senor Don Anibal Cruz, who died in Washington last January.

New York.—A tribe believed to be the lineal descendants of the Jews driven from Jerusalem into Ethiopia 2500 years ago, have been discovered in Abyssinia by Dr. Jacob Faithlovitch. The doctor arrived in Jacoba last week for the purpose of raising a fund whereby the Falashes—as they are called—may be educated.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—The first break in the furniture strike situation is said to be a victory for the strikers. The Marvel Manufacturing Company, employing between 75 and 100 men, has signed a one-year agreement with the union and will resume operations. The agreement calls for a nine-hour day and an increase of 10 per cent in wages.

Washington.—Postmaster-General Hitchcock is confident that penny postage is a probability of the near future as a result of reductions in the $17,600,000 postal deficit which existed when he took charge of the Postoffice Department. Asheville, N. C.—Belated reports from the mountainous sections of Transylvania county say a portion of "Caesar's Head," a famous peak, has been overturned by an earthquake shock, said to have been felt in western North Carolina. Chicago.—Two men who met at the inquest of Michael H. Ahern, each claiming to be a son of the dead man, learned that Ahern for fifty years had been the father of two large families, neither of which knew of the existence of the other. Kansas City.—Dr. B. C. Hyde, under a life sentence of imprisonment for the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope, was released from the county jail on a writ of habeas corpus granted by the seven judges of the Circuit Court here. In the opinion of the court en banc, the majority of the evidence upon which the physician was convicted was circumstantial, and there was a reasonable doubt of the prisoner's guilt.

Neah Bay, Wash.—Just a year after the census men finished counting the noses of the people of this State, comes news of the discovery of a community on a little island off an isolated section of the coast of Washington where the people were missed in the count and were not known to exist. What Fertilizers to Use.

The kind and amount of fertilizers which can be most economically used on a certain crop or on a certain soil, can be determined only by an actual test. No chemical analysis of either the soil or the plant will show this accurately. The kind of fertilizing needed will depend more upon the natural character of the soil, its previous treatment and its present mechanical condition, than upon the actual plant food taken up by the growing crop. The following suggestions as to the amount and composition of the fertilizers needed for different crops are based on the experience of experiment stations, and of successful farmers in different parts of the country. The figures here given represent the averages which have been found most profitable on ordinary soils in fair condition.

THE SUGAR BEET.

The sugar beet reaches its highest development in north temperate latitudes. The mere growing of a large number of tons per acre can be accomplished far south, but beets grown in such localities are less rich in sucrose and yield less sugar than those grown farther north.

Soil. The sugar beet is not particular as to kind of soil, but does not take kindly to stiff clays and virgin soils or those especially rich in organic matter or alkaline salts. The best soil is a sandy loam containing a happy blending of organic matter, clay and sand. In general, cultivation and other circumstances being the same, any soil which will produce a good crop of Indian corn, wheat or potatoes, will produce a proportionately good crop of sugar beets, however, it must be well drained and should be reasonably level.

Cultivation. Sugar beets do best after wheat, or some other cereal, on land plowed in the fall, not less than 9 inches in depth and stirred several inches deeper by a sub-soil plow. In the spring it should be cross-plowed, and worked until reduced to perfect tilth. The seed is planted in drills, as described for field or garden beets, and as soon as the plants are large enough to mark the rows, cultivation, with horse or hand hoe, should commence and be continued at least once a week, until the foliage of the growing crop will cover the ground, which should be left practically level by the last cultivation.

Fertilizing. Manuring with barnyard manure is suitable for sugar beets. Potash used in fertilizers should be in the form of sulphate rather than muriate. The fertilizer constituents actually removed by a crop of 10 tons of sugar beets per acre, are as follows:

Nitrogen, 110 lbs.
Potash, 195 lbs.
Phosphoric acid, 40 lbs.

Dr. H. W. Wiley, in treating on this matter in a report to the U. S. Government, says: "As to the relation which the quantity of material returned to the soil should bear to the quantity abstracted by the beet, it may be said in general that it is desirable to return as much nitrogen, from one and a quarter to one and a half times as much potash, and two and a half times as much phosphoric acid as have been removed by the roots. Greater additions of potash and phosphoric acid have no disadvantageous effect upon the crop." Good practice indicates an application per acre of from 1,500 to 2,000 pounds of a fertilizer containing:

Nitrogen, 5%
Actual potash, 9%
Available phosphoric acid, 6%

The fertilizer should be broadcasted, and mixed with earth so that seed and fertilizer do not come in contact.

Suggestions. The time for harvesting varies in different localities, and should be postponed as long as practical, provided there be no danger of a second growth or of exposure to a freezing temperature. The leaves of the ripened beet change from a rich to a yellowish green, droop, settle closely on the earth and many of them die. The harvesting is easily accomplished by first loosening the beets with a plow and then removing them by hand.

A Kansas Proclamation.

An Anthony man has issued the following proclamation: "Neighbors, I am a man of peace. I want no trouble. I want to make no trouble for others. I have a wife and children, and they need me. I also have a house, a lawn and a garden. I am about to put some seed in my garden beds. I have bought a gun and some shells, and while I am not a crack shot, I think I can hit chickens. It is my purpose to try if any come around where my blue grass is struggling and my onions are showing their bald heads."

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, and so nervous I could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. In a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."
—Mrs. SALLIE STEVENS, R. F. D., No. 3, Box 34, Waurika, Okla.

Another Grateful Woman.

Huntington, Mass.—"I was in a nervous, run down condition and for three years could find no help. I owe my present good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier which I believe saved my life."

"My doctor knows what helped me and does not say one word against it."
—Mrs. MARI JANETTE BATES, Box 124, Huntington, Mass.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

Prisoners Honored Commence.

When the circus exhibited in Montpelier, Vt., recently, there was no work for eleven prisoners in the jail. The sheriff purchased tickets for them and allowed them to see the show without an escort. Some had long terms to serve and the crowd and darkness furnished an excellent opportunity to escape. Fifteen minutes after the performance was over every one was back where he belonged.

A Brave Regiment.

Few regiments, says the New York Evening Post, have a better record for heroism than the 24th infantry, colored. During the war in Cuba the colonel of this regiment was ordered to detail sixty men, to replace as many nurses who had contracted yellow fever in the quarantine hospital.

The colonel, recognizing the peculiar work to be performed by his men who would go to the yellow-fever camps, ordered out his regiment in line, and said to them:

"Soldiers of the 24th, I want 60 volunteers to help nurse your white comrades who are suffering with yellow fever."

He commanded, "Volunteers, three paces to the front! March!"

Every man of that line stepped to the front.

But wait! Mark well the sequel to such Christian heroism. It was only a short time before word came to the colonel that half of his men who had volunteered to nurse their white comrades had been taken down with yellow fever. A number of them had died of that terrible disease, and 30 more nurses were wanted to take their places.

Again the colonel called out his black soldiers in line. He told them what had happened, and again he commanded:

"Volunteers, three paces to the front! March!"

And again every man of that line stepped to the front.

Had A Surplus On Hand.

"Johnnie, if I give you 2 cents and your father gave you 3 cents, how much would you have?"

"Seven," promptly replied Johnnie.

"You can't have understood me, Johnnie. Now, listen, and I will repeat the question. If I give you 2 cents and your father gave you 3, how much would you have?"

"Seven," said Johnnie again, and with some promptness.

"I am surprised at you, Johnnie," said the teacher. "How on earth would you have seven?"

"I got two in my pocket," said Johnnie.—Philadelphia Times.

An Open Confession

THERE is good prospects of having the Odd Fellows Home located near Saratoga in the near future. The site was purchased a year ago and plans for the building have been prepared. The proposed cost will be $150,000 or $200,000.
The location of such an institution would mean much to this part of the valley.

JUDGING from the number of people who are going into the chicken business in this neighborhood the market will soon be supplied; but don't worry, it will be a long time before the raising of the state will even supply the home trade. Reports show we have $3,000-000 worth of poultry. Redeggs are shipped into the state annually.
California has many advantages in favor of poultry raising and should be able to supply the whole coast.

THE measure of the recent Legislature aimed to enlarge and perpetuate the powers of the medical trust in this state were frustrated. Every bill designed to strengthen the power of the trust was defeated, while the only one in line with the principals of medical freedom passed and went to the governor for his signature. This is the bill which takes out of the hands of the state medical societies the selection of medical examiners.
It was directly through the efforts of the National League for Medical Freedom, and the cooperation of the local committees throughout the state, backed by the almost unanimous support of the press, that this good work was accomplished.

THE town has been flooded with Colliers' agents this past week.
We did not order the paper nor the books, but the young cigarette fiend who called at the office placed our name on an order and had a set of books delivered at the house in our absence. When we went to lunch this noon and found the books and that $1.00 had been paid to the deliveryman we immediately started after the man's scalp. On the way to the justice court we met Mr.
Monie who delivered the books and found that he had an order with our name to it and that he had acted in good confidence. He gladly "made good" and tonight will adjust things with the other fellow. We mention this little incident for the protection of our people. We have known Mr. Monie for years and don't believe he would stand for any dishonest methods on the part of solicitors.
If you have been mistreated, state your troubles to Mr. Monie.

DURING the past week we have made it a point to talk with different fruit men about the prospects of the coming crop—prunes especially. Some seem to think that they have a pretty fair crop and seem inclined to sell at a 4 cent basis. We had a conversation with P. B. Payne, manager of the Campbell Farmers Union Packing Co., this morning. Mr. Payne has been in the orchards a great deal and says that most men are overestimating their crop. The yield will be pretty fair and the prunes of good size and quality.

By a careful examination he finds that of the three sizes the firsts are going ahead and developing in good shape; the seconds are not growing and are falling off and all will come off; the third or smallest size has already fallen. His advice to growers is not too be too anxious to sell as the price will be much better than four cents, probably in the neighborhood of five cents. Some of the Santa Clara County packers have already been selling at 4 1/2 and 5 cent, so it is reported from Eastern points.

An Open Confession

It is said that an open confession is good for the soul. However that may be it sometimes seems the best thing to do.
And I want to "less up." I have been "nasty" to a brother man. He is a very nice brother man too, and very good-looking. Also he is a scholar and a gentleman.

And if there is anything pleasing in these remarks it may atone in a measure for my discourtesy. But since he is, besides all I have said of him, a pigskin and a stranger, he is likely to think of me as one of those horribly strong minded creatures who are bent upon the destruction of the enemy Man. It is dollars to doughnuts that he will never know what a dear, sweet soul I really am!

The man in question spoke most elo-quently in one of our local churches last Sunday evening. And he was so broad minded that I expected great things of him. Later, when I was introduced to him, the conversation turned upon the subject of equal suffrage. And the good brother remarked that he "thought that he should vote for the suffrage amendment, but wasn't quite sure that he was in favor of giving the ballot to women after all," or words to that effect. When I asked why, he tried to explain, but I kept interrupting him. Yes I did! And I am very sorry for it. You see that I knew just what he was going to say as soon as he commenced. It was the superior-creature-forfeiting—the respect—and-chivalry—of—men, business. Oh! I was so surprised that I forgot my manners, not to speak of policy.
"Aren't you afraid," I mocked, "that intimate contact with the wash-tub, the ironing-board, the scrubbing-brush and the dish-pan, to say nothing of raising chickens and—" "children," he supplemented kindly. "Yes, and children," I said gratefully, "will destroy, in a measure, that beautiful efflorescence of delicate grace which so distinguishes Woman?"

The man sidestepped gracefully. He said that at any rate he had not used all those "big words." Well, he hadn't.
Really he had but expressed his own opinion as he had a perfect right to do.
It was I who was in the wrong.

Oh! I am trying to be calm and judicial.
I am trying to present the questions with which I deal in a fair light. But I feel that we women are not quite understood.
I think that men ought to trust us more, knowing that women, as a body, never ask for anything that is not theirs by every human right. They have to trust us to bring up their children, and to manage their households. I feel that they can trust us all, or not at all.

Women, REAL women, do not care to be placed upon a pedestal, and bowed down to, as a superior creature. They just want a fighting chance along with the rest of humanity. They want to "fight the GOOD fight" always. And the grand woman of the future will never materialize, except she be allowed to develop as seems best to herself.

If I ever see that nice man again I will say, "Brother forgive me for being rude.
And do not lay it up against the woman's cause. Be bigger than to blame the whole sex for the fault of one of its members."

Badly Burned
Geo. Davis was the victim of a severe burn on the face which might have been much worse. Wednesday morning he was working at the Whitmore place on Hamilton avenue, formerly the Jaderquist place, fixing a large gasoline engine. He had the head off and was regulating the spark when an explosion occurred, the flame striking him full in the face and causing a painful injury. Fortunately, his eyes were not hurt.

Rum Sellers Meet Violent Deaths

Series of Fatalities Overtake San Francisco Saloonkeepers

Labor Leaders Aroused by Dynamite Suspects' Arrest

Business Men of Metropolis To Support Rolph for Mayor

From the Pacific Press Association, Phelan Building, San Francisco.

San Francisco, April 27.—The death a few days ago of Frank Dunn, proprietor of a tenderloin cafe and one of the most widely-known saloon men of this city, as the result of injuries sustained by being thrown from an automobile while on a midnight joy-ride, marks the latest of a series of violent deaths that have overtaken San Francisco saloonists during the past few months.

This latest fatality has caused a feeling of uneasiness to pervade the ranks of the more than 3,000 retail liquor dispensers of the city, the more superstitious of whom are speculating as to whether an inexorable Nemesis has them marked for slaughter.

The Dunn fatality followed closely on the heels of the killing of "Pop" Floyd, one of the oldest saloonists of San Francisco, who was shot to death in a duel in his place of business by one of his bar-keepers. The latter was given his liberty, after proving that he shot in self-defense.

A short time previous to the killing of Floyd, David Becker, a well-known cafe proprietor, was instantly killed in a midnight automobile accident on the County road south of San Francisco.

Antedating the demise of Becker by a few weeks, "Billy" Gallagher, a saloon-keeper, well-known to the sporting fraternity of San Francisco and other coast cities, was shot and killed by Charles Long, a deputy sheriff, during a quarrel.
The slayer was exonerated, it being shown that he acted in self-defense.

The first victim of this series of violent deaths among rum-sellers was Lafayette Strading, who was killed in an automobile accident on the Great Highway, in the suburbs of San Francisco.

The other deaths followed the Strading accident at such short intervals as to cause considerable concern to the surviving army of liquor dispensers, some whom, it has been noted, are now foregoing joy-rides and other reckless forms of amusement erstwhile they were partial to.

Organized labor in San Francisco is aroused as never before over the arrest of the three members of the Structural Iron Workers Union who are charged with having perpetrated the Los Angeles Times dynamiting outrage.

The consensus of opinion of local labor leaders is that the affair is a frame-up engineered by big business interests to discredit organized labor and intimi-dations are made that the defense will spring a surprise at the trial of the case.

Steps already have been taken to raise funds among the various labor organizations of San Francisco to assist in the defense of the accused.

While the leaders are putting on a bold front and profess to believe that the accused men eventually will be cleared of the grave charges, a pessimistic feeling seems to pervade the rank and file of organized labor here, who fear that the arrest of the accused union men will array public sentiment against unionism and prove a serious handicap in the struggle between union labor and the advocates of the open shop in San Francisco and other Pacific Coast cities, which is believed to be not far distant.

In the meantime the Citizens' Alliance is busily engaged securing the services of war in San Francisco and other Coast cities and may fire the opening gun at any moment.

Saratoga Wants a High School Professor J. Fred Smith was present at a meeting of the Parents and Teachers' Association of Lincoln School of Cuper-tino last Friday and addressed the meeting. He spoke on the subject of the proposed Union High School at Saratoga. He laid before them facts pointing plainly to the necessity of forming such a High School and the benefits they would derive from it. Many signed the petition for a bond election as a result of Professor Smith's talk.
